Self Study Webcast
Dec 20 - Dec 21

Overview:

Along with a major cut in corporate tax rates and a modest reduction in individual rates, the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017 includes complex rules for a potential tax deduction for owners of pass-through entities, and rule changes for corporations conducting business overseas. The result: business owners are left wondering whether they're operating through the most efficient type of entity. In this revealing self-study webinar, an expert will explain the effects of the tax act's sweeping changes for filing entities. From a standpoint of lower taxation, you'll explore:

- The importance of choosing or changing the type of entity for tax considerations
- The pros, cons and legal issues with each entity type
- The differences in taxation
- The ramifications of flexible allocations
- The tax consequences of an eventual sale of an entity

Objective:

To ensure tax accountants and financial professionals gain a clear understanding of the impacts of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017 on filing entities. This self-study webinar will provide detailed insights on the pros, cons, and legal issues of various entity types—as well as changes in tax rates—to empower you to select the most efficient entity for your operation.
